NOTE TO EDITORS: The latest of the series, "The Episcopal Church Looks at Issues," appeared in the January EPISCOPALIAN and is now available for reproduction in your newspapers. In this piece, writer Joseph Vitale explored both the issues and the people who are caught up in the questions about "The Arms Race." Many of your colleagues have used portions of this series, which has included "Capital Punishment," "Family Life" and "Human Migration," to help acquaint Church people with issues raised by the General Convention. Mechanicals, for direct printing in your paper, can be ordered through the Press Office and bundles for insertion or other distribution can be ordered through the Public Issues Office, both at the Episcopal Church Center, 815 Second Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.
